Event Objective

The session was designed to Offer a practical understanding of patents and industrial design protections. Simplify the application and registration processes. Showcase the strategic value of design and patent rights in fostering innovation, product differentiation, and market competitiveness.

Event Outcome

Design and patents play a critical role in enabling differentiation and competitiveness in markets. The IP registration process is more accessible than perceived and can be a powerful tool for innovators. Experiential design thinking and practical IP knowledge are essential for bridging the gap between ideation and market success.
